

STILL DOUBTED CZAR'S PURPOSE

Strikes Will Not End Until Amnesty Is Given
To All Political Offenders.

GREAT JOY OVER PROCLAMATION

Odessa Police, Soldiers And People Join In Celebrating
The Czar's Manifesto With A Big Jubilee Today.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The people this morning assumed a critical attitude toward the Czar's manifesto. They feel that the Emperor's advisors must go far beyond the word of the edict to assure the people liberty. All classes, on account of previous experiences, are suspicious of the imperial promises.

Wild Enthusiasm
Odessa, Oct. 31.—The people here this morning learned of the manifesto with wild enthusiasm. The city has a holiday aspect. The soldiers and police are joining in the demonstration. It is expected the strike will end immediately.

Will Not End
St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—It is unlikely that the strike will end until the political amnesty is extended to all offenders. It is expected the amnesty will be granted soon. The crowds gathered in the churches and offered thanks for the manifesto.

Promises Freedom
St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—Witte promises immediate freedom to all political prisoners who can be released without endangering the public peace.

Strike Continues
Warsaw, Oct. 31.—The strike continues. The revolutionists demand political amnesty for all offenders. The newspapers have reappeared today. The soldiers patrol the streets and the officials are at a loss to know what attitude to assume. Two men who are believed to be working under orders of the revolutionary committee today broke into the Vulcan iron factory, killing the cashier and stealing $70,000, and escaping. The social democrats issued a proclamation calling the people to rise up and declaring that Russia is not free.

March Streets
St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—Workmen are parading the streets this afternoon carrying flags, and the buildings are decorated.

Want More Yet
St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The strike will continue until an amnesty and universal suffrage are assured.

Want All Free
St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The revolutionists are determined to free all political prisoners and several skirmishes with troops are reported. Prof. Tarle was wounded.

Makes a Report
Washington, Oct. 31.—Spencer Eddy, charge d'affaires for this country at St. Petersburg, cables the official announcement of the establishment of a constitutional cabinet, minister of the interior, Obolensky; minister of finance, Romanoff; justice, Koniski; education, Krehovsky; communications, Straffussen.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The auto-cracy of Russia is no more. The absolute reign of the Romanoffs has ceased and the people's fight for liberty has been won.

In an imperial manifesto Monday night Emperor Nicholas surrenders and Count Witte comes into power as minister-president, with an imperial mandate which will enable him to convert the farcical national assembly into a real legislative body elected by greatly extended suffrage and to confer upon the people fundamental civil liberties, including free speech.

The conditions of the imperial mandate grant to the people of Russia freedom of the press, the right of assembly and the immunity of the person, including the right of habeas corpus.

The municipal council, after reading the imperial manifesto at its sitting Monday evening, dispatched the following telegram to the emperor: "The council welcomes with delight the long-desired tidings of freedom, firmly relying on a bright future for our dear fatherland. Hurrah for the emperor of a free people."

Proclamation in Outline.
The following is the text of the imperial manifesto issued by the czar: "We, Nicholas II, by the grace of God emperor and autocrat of all the Russias, grand duke of Finland, etc., declare to all our faithful subjects that the troubles and agitation in our capitals and in numerous other places fill our heart with excessive pain and sorrow.

"The happiness of the Russian sovereign is indissolubly bound up with the happiness of our people and the sorrow of our people in the sorrow of the sovereign.

"From the present disorders may arise great national disruption. They menace the integrity and unity of our empire.

hasten in securing the unity and coordination of the power of the central government and to assure the success of the measures for pacification in all circles of public life, which are essential to the well being of our people.

Reforms Are Ordered.
"We therefore direct our government to carry out our inflexible will in the following manner:

"1. To extend to the population the immutable foundations of civil liberty, based on the real inviolability of person, freedom of conscience, speech, union and association.

"2. Without suspending the already ordered elections to the state duma, to invite to participation in the duma, so far as the limited time before the convocation of the duma will permit, those classes of the population now completely deprived of electoral rights, leaving the ultimate development of the principle of the electoral right in general to the newly established legislative order of things.

"3. To establish as an unchangeable rule that no law shall be enforceable without the approval of the state duma and that it shall be possible for the elected of the people to exercise real participation in the supervision of the legality of the acts of the authorities appointed by us.

"We appeal to all faithful sons of Russia to remember their duty toward the fatherland, to aid in terminating these unprecedented troubles and to apply their forces, in co-operation with us, to the restoration of calm and peace upon our natal soil.

"Given at Peterhof, Oct. 30, in the eleventh year of our reign."

TROOPS FIRE ON CROWD.

One Hundred Persons Are Killed or Injured at Reval, Russia.

Reval, Russia, Oct. 31.—The troops fired two volleys on a crowd in the Market place Monday, killing or wounding over 100 persons. Crowds of people parade the streets singing the "Marseillaise." A mob destroyed the Hotel de France.

Riga, Oct. 31.—Cossacks dispersed several meetings here. The people fired from windows upon the cabmen who have refused to join in the strike.

During Monday collisions between the troops and the armed populace continued. Many persons were killed or wounded. The strikers used knives and revolvers and killed a number of police with cold steel.

Rostoff-on-Don, Oct. 31.—A mob attacked the synagogue here. Two Jews were killed. Finally the rioters were dispersed by Cossacks, who used their whips.

Zlatoust, Oct. 31.—The workmen at the government iron mills have struck.

Tiflis, Caucasus, Oct. 31.—The patrols everywhere have been strengthened, but the feeling of the people has not calmed. Firing is heard almost continuously in the streets. All the shops and schools are closed and no papers are published. The treasury is heavily guarded. Several bomb factories have been discovered here.

Strike Becomes General.
Vitebsk, Oct. 31.—The whole population of this city has joined in the strike. The feeling is high, trade is at a standstill, the workmen's meetings are crowded to the doors, inflammatory speeches are delivered and the banks are refusing to lend money.

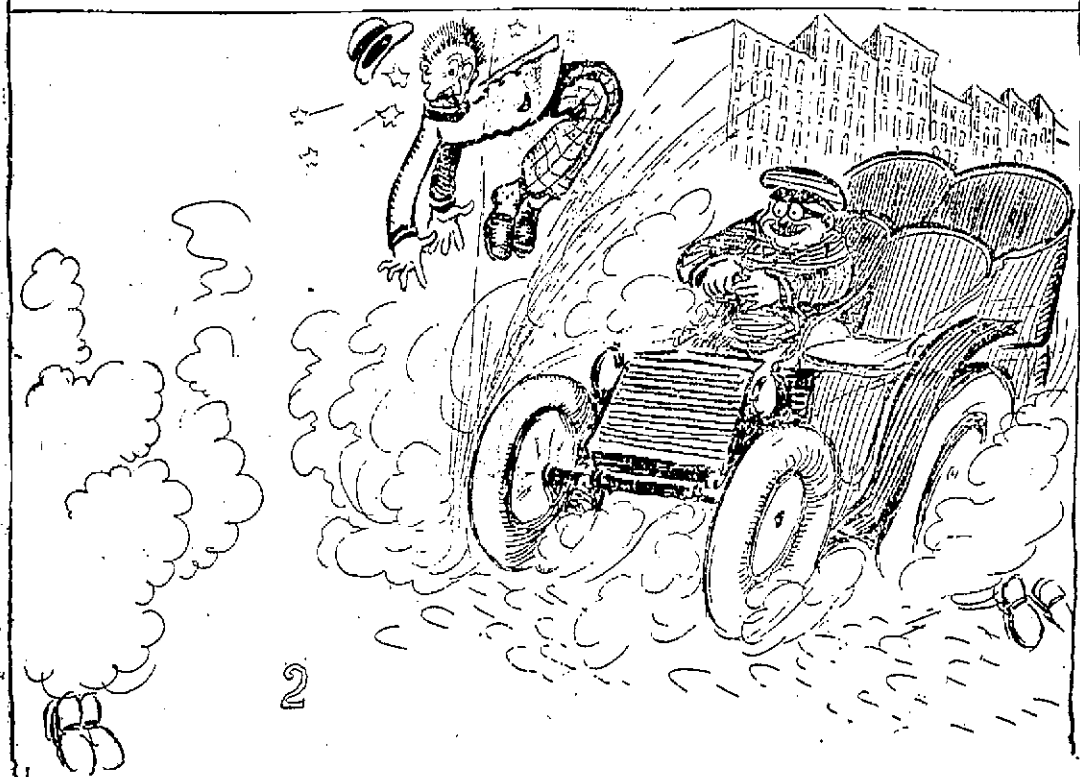

Khar'kov, Oct. 31.—The postoffice has resumed work, but no trains are running. About 30,000 passengers are held up here, costing the government $14,000 per day.

Groznyi, Oct. 31.—A reign of terror prevails in northern Caucasus. It is charged that the authorities are pursuing the policy of turning one class of the population against another and are abetting the work of the brigands, who Sunday night robbed and sacked a train, killing twelve persons and wounding ten. When the train arrived the crowds dragged out and killed three brigands and then drove the commander of the Cossacks out of town.

Vasilkov, Oct. 31.—The waterworks here are in the hands of strikers and the town is in possession of the military.

Kazan, Oct. 31.—The governor has issued a proclamation urging the people not to hold meetings at the university and not to provoke interference of the troops.

Charles Knepper of Quincy, Ill., arrested at Newark, O., for assaulting his wife at Quincy, was released on habeas corpus and left Newark at once.

PRESIDENT RETURNS DELIGHTED BY TRIP

Enjoyed Tour of Southern States and Rested During His Voyage on West Virginia.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

Washington, Oct. 31.—President Roosevelt, accompanied by Secretary Loeb and Surgeon-General Rixey, arrived here early this morning on the yacht Mayflower from Norfolk. The party did not leave the yacht until after seven o'clock, when Mr. Roosevelt was driven to the White House. The President said that he enjoyed the rest which he was able to take during the sea voyage from New Orleans to Norfolk, where he left cruiser West Virginia and was transferred to the Government yacht Mayflower, but never in his life has he enjoyed anything more than his trip through the Southern States and the hearty reception which he met everywhere.

an Explosion of That Product
This Morning.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Parkersburg, W. Va., Oct. 31.—Fire started this morning in the Pine Grove hotel at Pine Grove by a natural gas explosion and destroyed practically the whole town. Dynamite stopped its further progress. It is reported many lives were lost. The loss is two hundred thousand dollars.

POLICY HOLDERS ARE TO HOLD A MEETING

The Gathering is to Meet in This City
Tomorrow Evening — Called by Committee.

Steps which were taken at a recent meeting of policy-holders of the Mutual Life insurance companies to have a general meeting of policy-holders of all insurance companies gathered together for a general discussion of the insurance situation, have culminated in the following call for a general meeting. The meeting will be held in the city hall and the committee calling it were the gentlemen chosen at the last meeting of the policy-holders for that purpose. The following is the call issued:

There will be a public meeting of policy-holders in the "old line life insurance companies" at the city hall on Wednesday evening, November 1st, 1905, at 8 o'clock. This notice is authorized by a recent meeting of a number of policy-holders of the "Mutual Life." Its object is to enable policy-holders better to understand their rights and duties. A large attendance is desired.

Henry Kiefer, constable, horseman, and reformer, is again on the warpath against Sheboygan gamblers, and has secured a warrant for Harry Gilmore, charging him with operating a gambling device.

DISCREDIT STORY OF THE TRAIN TROUBLE

Admiral Has Been Heard From, But Says Nothing About His Trouble with the Natives.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

Washington, Oct. 31.—The Navy department has received two dispatches from Admiral Train dated yesterday at Shanghai. The reported attack by a Chinese mob at Nankin is unmentioned in either message. One told of the target practice of the battleship Oregon. The other conveyed the expressions of pleasure of the Mikado of the visit of the American warship to Japan. The officials here discredit the story of the attack Shanghai is a long distance from Nankin.

ROOSEVELT REACHED WASHINGTON SAFELY

Arrives Home From His Southern
Trip in Record Breaking Time
This Morning.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Washington, Oct. 31.—President Roosevelt reached the navy-yards at eleven-fifty-five this morning and was met by Mrs. Roosevelt in a phaeton and drove to the White House. A wireless message from the West Virginia says the President spent most of each day on the bridge. The cruisers' trip from the mouth of the Mississippi river was made in three days and ten hours, breaking all records in spite of a stormy passage.

Secretary Loeb says the President was slightly seasick during the gale Sunday night but remained on deck. He broke bread with all the officers of the squadron, the admiral inviting them aboard in relays until all were honored.

TIED PAPA'S HANDS; SKIPPED WITH GIRLS

Two Men Accused of Being Very Impudent to a Racine Father
Last Night.

Racine, Wis., Oct. 31.—That he was bound and gagged by his two daughters and their lovers, who then eloped, and that, after lying helpless for seven hours, his faithful dog came to him and, with his teeth, untied the bonds that held him, is the strange story told to the police by Gustav Kabeberger, a farmer living near here. Kabeberger says his daughters, who are aged 16 and 18, fell in love with the two men, who have been boarding at his place two weeks, and that he was seized and bound without warning. While inclined to doubt the man's story the police say the marks made by the ropes are plainly visible.

Give Up to Police
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 31.—C. D. Madison, accused by the Racine police, with his brother, George Madison, of having bound Gustav Kabeberger, a farmer, and eloped with his daughters, Elsie and Eva, aged eighteen and sixteen years, respectively, gave up to the Chicago police this afternoon.

He will be held for the Racine officers. He says he did not marry Eva because she was too young, but he says his brother married Elsie and took both girls to Kankakee, Illinois.

COURT TROUBLES OF "COMMON CARRIERS"

Santa Fe Will Have Hearing Before
Commission Tomorrow — Union
Pacific and Burlington Wrangle.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

Washington, October 31.—The Interstate Commission will tomorrow take up the long deferred charges against the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads. It is understood that the main line of defense of these roads will be the contention that no losses were sustained by shippers of perishable goods in refrigerator cars.

Interference Alleged.
Omaha, Neb., October 31.—Judge Munger today began a hearing in the suit of the Union Pacific against the Burlington in which the former seeks to restrain the latter from interfering with the construction of a branch of the Union Pacific between North Platte and Northport, Neb. It is alleged in the suit that the Burlington has undertaken to locate a line across the right of way of the Union Pacific and that this is done merely to harass and annoy, as the Burlington has no intention of building such a line.

Andrew Morstadt Has Trick to Play
Against Chicago Police and Former Wife Who Persecutes Him.

Andrew Morstadt, who is employed in the butcher-shop at the corner of Western and Center avenues and who is wanted in Chicago to answer to the charge of desertion preferred by a former wife, refuses to go thither without requisition papers and the Chicago police are likely to go through a lot of red tape for nothing. Over a year ago Mr. Morstadt was taken thither on a complaint for failure to support. According to his story he was fleeced of his money by the Chicago police in the jail and roughly used by everyone who was party to what seemed a plot to rob him of what little money he had. His attorney, O. A. Oestreich, succeeded in getting him out of the trouble and afterwards procured a divorce for him. Subsequently he married. The Chicago woman is determined to continue her persecution and Chief Collins wired Chief Appleby to arrest Morstadt last evening. In municipal court today he gave bail for $200 to guarantee his appearance on Nov. 6 and was released. In the meantime the Chicago police will have to go to Springfield to start the requisition proceedings. When they arrive in Madison Mr. Morstadt will be represented by his attorney who will present the facts to Gov. La Follette and probably succeed in having the requisition refused.

STATE NOTES

Northbound passenger train No. 31 was derailed about two and a half miles north of Birmamwood, but no one was injured.

The 14-year-old son of M. Broncotti, an Italian farmer living two miles north of Phillips, had his right arm shot off while hunting.

The Rev. Dr. Edward Eaton, who recently resigned the presidency of Beloit college, will go to the pastorate of the North Congregational church of t. Johnsbury, Vt., in January.

HAD NO CHANCE TO SAVE LIFE

Coroner Decides That Freshman Was Tied To The Railway Tracks At Gambler.

STRUGGLED VAINLY FOR FREEDOM

Rope Marks Appear On The Wrists Of The Dead Student, Showing That He Was Tied To The Tracks In Death.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 31.—Evidence is accumulating to show that Stuart L. Pierson, the 17-year-old freshman at Kenyon college, who was killed by a train on a railroad bridge Saturday night at Gambler while awaiting initiation into the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, did not fall asleep, but was tied to the track by members of the fraternity.

Coroner Scarborough of Mount Vernon, Coroner Cameron of Cincinnati, and two members of the Cincinnati police force working on the case declare the boy was tied on the track, and the committee of the fraternity which put him there and left him helpless may be arrested charged with his murder.

That a former initiatory ceremony included the tying of a blindfolded candidate on a spur track, from where he heard the approach of a train on the main line in terror until he fainted in fear, has been ascertained by Coroner Scarborough.

Coroner Scarborough says that on Pierson's right wrist and left ankle are marks which undoubtedly were made by a rope. In the wrist the radius bone is pushed up in such a manner as to make it seem that the pressure of the rope, augmented by the boy's struggles to free himself, had displaced the bone. There are no other injuries on either the forearm or the left leg to indicate the marks were made when he was thrown by the engine.

Coroner Is Busy.
Coroner Scarborough is gathering evidence about the body's condition and has decided to hold an inquest to determine whether the fraternity committee shall be held on a charge of causing Pierson's death.

While the regular train runs over the bridge at Gambler at 9:40, there was a special train on Saturday night on another track, and the coroner says the evidence is that it was the special which killed Pierson, thus lending color to the supposition that he was tied to a track on which the students did not know a train was to pass.

N. E. Pierson, the boy's father, who was at Gambler on Saturday night initiating another student into the same fraternity, of which the elder Pierson was a member twenty-five years ago, scouts the idea his son was tied to the track, but the coroner says it will be made a subject for an inquest to determine. Coroner Scarborough says he learned that early on Sunday morning a party of young men went to the scene of the accident and with brooms and buckets cleaned up all traces of the tragedy.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 31.—The treatment received by the badger football rooters at the hands of the managers of the Minnesota athletes, wherein the badgers were refused a sufficient block of seats, and will have to root for their team in small and scattered contingents surrounded everywhere by gopher partisans, has revived, serious consideration of the proposition of cutting out the annual Wisconsin-Minnesota football game. The sentiment in Madison just now, the final week before the great annual contest on the gridiron, is that there is only one reason why this game should be continued, and that is the financial reason. Some 19,000 tickets have already been sold and the receipts will surely be about $30,000. Wisconsin's athletic department needs all the money it can get, and the annual Minnesota game is the most profitable one on the schedule. The share of the badgers this year will be in the neighborhood of $15,000. Every year that the badgers go to Minneapolis there is received treatment that annoys and exasperates, either in the selection of officials or the allotment of rooters' sections, or both. This year Manager Downer of Wisconsin early informed the Minnesota management that Wisconsin would want at least 500 good reserved seats all in one section for the cardinal rooters, but he has been able to get only 330 in one place and the others are scattered all around the field where the cardinal partisans will be easily smothered in the gopher yells. This hurts Wisconsin feelings, for it is believed to be a deliberate plan of the Minnesota people to deprive the badger team of the assistance that may come through organized cheer-

DEATH SUMMONS JAS. SUTHERLAND

WAS ONE OF JANESVILLE'S MOST PROMINENT RESIDENTS.

FATHER OF NORMAL SCHOOLS

Championed First Appropriation Bill for Those Institutions—Twice.
Mayor of City.

At his home on Highland avenue last evening at 6:20 o'clock, death came to the Hon. James Sutherland. He had been in feeble health for some time and during the past two weeks was confined to his bed by a complication of illness. In his demise the life of one of Janesville's leading citizens came to a close. He was the oldest active business man in the city, one of the founders of the local public schools, an advocate of temperance, a hard church-worker and the father of the Wisconsin normal school system.

Born in Ohio
James Sutherland was born in Smithfield township, Jefferson county, Ohio, March 20, 1829. His boyhood days were passed upon the farm of his father and his education was gained from Ashland Academy and Norwalk seminary. His ambition was to finish a college course but his health failed. He then turned to vocation of teaching, having a school for several winter terms and himself attending school in the summer. While a young man he spent some time in the south, but in the spring of 1847 he came to Rock county. During the autumn of that year he became a permanent resident in this city and since then has been one of Janesville's leading and most noted citizens. He opened a bookstore in 1848, which, now managed by his sons, has become one of the leading business establishments.

Helped Build Janesville
Mr. Sutherland has done much to advance Janesville. Every move for the betterment of the city for more than the past half century has had his support and for nearly that length of time he was an active leader or assistant. For many years he was treasurer of the Rock county Bible Society and has served as its president, secretary and director. He was elected the first superintendent of schools in the town of Janesville in 1848 and later, when the city was incorporated, became the first superintendent of the city schools. He has also been a member of the board of education several times. Twice he was chosen mayor by large majorities and both administrations were examples of honorable and strenuous performance of the executive duties. He aided in bringing railroads to and through here and helped to locate some of the most prosperous industries.

Father of Normal Schools
The public life of Mr. Sutherland has not been entirely local. In fact, his most notable achievement was in the State Senate. Twice he represented the county in this body and there fathered the present Wisconsin normal school system, which by its success has become a model throughout the country. The first legislation in Wisconsin upon normal schools occurred in 1857. The bill, entitled "A bill for the encouragement of normal schools and academies," was introduced and through the efforts of Mr. Sutherland was carried through the Senate. After an amendment, which did not materially change the bill, it was passed in the Assembly and by it an ample normal school fund has been provided without any direct cost to the people. It was during one of his terms that the scandalous land grant extra session was held. He opposed every proposition for the disposal of the grant and took an active part in exposing the frauds which gave away valuable property of the State to the speculators.

Always Advocate of Temperance
Having visited in the south during the ante-bellum period he was acquainted with the slave system and ever opposed it uncompromisingly. He was an advocate of strict temperance and identified himself with many total abstinence movements, though he never left the ranks of the republican party, even when the third

NOTHING DOING IN WASHINGTON

"EXCLUSIVE CONTRACT" TALK

"Rebates" and "Discriminations"
Relegated as Topics of Conversation at Capital.

(From William Wolf Smith.)
Special Correspondence.
Washington, D. C.—"Exclusive contract" is now the word most heard in connection with the operation of refrigerator car lines. Formerly it was "rebates" and "discriminations" but as several years of patient investigation have failed to reveal a case where rebates were given by these lines or that discriminations existed, and as the Elkins law strictly prohibits these in any form whatever, attention was turned to "exclusive contracts" and each time the existence of these contracts is mentioned either before Congressional committees or the Interstate Commerce Commission, it is heralded to the world as a new discovery. Contracts of this character have been in existence for many years and copies of them have been available to the general public for six or seven years to the knowledge of your correspondent; consequently, the idea that there is anything secret about them is amusing. However, the public is properly disposed to regard with suspicion any "exclusive" contract as being in restraint of trade and this applies with as much force to such contracts between the railroads and the refrigerator car lines as between the railroads and the Pullman company. One cannot ride in a Pullman car and pay the heavy charges incident thereto without feeling that if there was competition in this business much lower rates would prevail. There is a difference, however, in that while many of us ride in Pullmans and are therefore qualified to speak, only a few know anything about the refrigerator car question for the eight odd million inhabitants of the United States, considerably less than half of one per cent have anything to do with the case as growers, shippers, transporters, buyers or sellers, or in brief, in any way except as consumers; and, as every one knows they don't count, being only good for getting the bills, consequently, the remainder of us must form our opinions from the testimony of those who really know something of the matter from actual personal experience, such as the statements of the growers, shippers and railroad men, before competent tribunals.

HON. JAMES SUTHERLAND

ed by the F. E. Revelle company of New York and Chicago in 1846. The book dealt largely with the evils and cure of intemperance and at the time of publication received hearty commendations from the press of the country and the public in general. By the solicitation of the editor, Mr. Sutherland was also a contributor to the New York Mail and Express for a time.

Six Children Survive
In December, 1846, Mr. Sutherland wedded Miss Elizabeth Withington. To bless their union seven children were born, six of whom survive him. They are James A., Orion, Arcurus and Araby Sutherland of Janesville, Charles L. Sutherland, M. D., of Buffalo, Kansas, and Mrs. Lily Percival of Buffalo, N. Y.

Funeral services will be held from the home Thursday afternoon at half-past two o'clock, Rev. R. C. Denison officiating. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

When you ask for Mrs. Austin's Pyramid Pile Cure, insist upon having it and say Mrs. Austin's and no other.

MAJOR BORDEN OF MILTON SUCCUMBS

Widely Known Physician Throughout
Southern Wisconsin—Veteran
of Civil War.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milton, Oct. 30.—Major W. H. Borden, M. D., died Monday afternoon after an illness that had confined him to the house but a few days, although he had been in feeble health for some months, but able to be about town. Deceased came to Milton in 1854 and began the practice of his profession, which he continued without cessation, except while serving as surgeon of the First Wisconsin Heavy Artillery during the War of the Rebellion, until failing health compelled him to relinquish it a year ago. Doctor Borden was very successful in his profession, had a large clientele and but few men had a larger acquaintance in this and adjoining counties than he. For several years he was a member of the Rock county board of pension physicians and was for some time an active member of the village school board. He took great interest in local, state and national affairs and was active in local matters for the betterment of town and country. He leaves one son, Assistant State Superintendent J. B. Borden of Madison, and two daughters, Miss Mary A. Borden of this village and Mrs. Geo. Van Campen of Olean, N. Y. He was born in New York state and was in his eighty-third year at the time of death. The funeral takes place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Fort Atkinson, Oct. 31.—The Kent Mfg. Co. is the name of a new stock company that has been formed here to manufacture three articles—a corn planter, a potato planter, and corn cutter; invented by A. C. Kent of Janesville. The officers of the company are: G. F. Emery, president; H. H. Curtis, vice-president; and C. Pearce, secretary and treasurer. The company have obtained international patents and expect to build up a large trade. A large amount of capital has been invested and they will go into the business extensively.

"EXCLUSIVE CONTRACT" TALK

"Rebates" and "Discriminations"
Relegated as Topics of Conversation at Capital.

(From William Wolf Smith.)
Special Correspondence.
Washington, D. C.—"Exclusive contract" is now the word most heard in connection with the operation of refrigerator car lines. Formerly it was "rebates" and "discriminations" but as several years of patient investigation have failed to reveal a case where rebates were given by these lines or that discriminations existed, and as the Elkins law strictly prohibits these in any form whatever, attention was turned to "exclusive contracts" and each time the existence of these contracts is mentioned either before Congressional committees or the Interstate Commerce Commission, it is heralded to the world as a new discovery. Contracts of this character have been in existence for many years and copies of them have been available to the general public for six or seven years to the knowledge of your correspondent; consequently, the idea that there is anything secret about them is amusing. However, the public is properly disposed to regard with suspicion any "exclusive" contract as being in restraint of trade and this applies with as much force to such contracts between the railroads and the refrigerator car lines as between the railroads and the Pullman company. One cannot ride in a Pullman car and pay the heavy charges incident thereto without feeling that if there was competition in this business much lower rates would prevail. There is a difference, however, in that while many of us ride in Pullmans and are therefore qualified to speak, only a few know anything about the refrigerator car question for the eight odd million inhabitants of the United States, considerably less than half of one per cent have anything to do with the case as growers, shippers, transporters, buyers or sellers, or in brief, in any way except as consumers; and, as every one knows they don't count, being only good for getting the bills, consequently, the remainder of us must form our opinions from the testimony of those who really know something of the matter from actual personal experience, such as the statements of the growers, shippers and railroad men, before competent tribunals.

HON. JAMES SUTHERLAND

ed by the F. E. Revelle company of New York and Chicago in 1846. The book dealt largely with the evils and cure of intemperance and at the time of publication received hearty commendations from the press of the country and the public in general. By the solicitation of the editor, Mr. Sutherland was also a contributor to the New York Mail and Express for a time.

Six Children Survive
In December, 1846, Mr. Sutherland wedded Miss Elizabeth Withington. To bless their union seven children were born, six of whom survive him. They are James A., Orion, Arcurus and Araby Sutherland of Janesville, Charles L. Sutherland, M. D., of Buffalo, Kansas, and Mrs. Lily Percival of Buffalo, N. Y.

Funeral services will be held from the home Thursday afternoon at half-past two o'clock, Rev. R. C. Denison officiating. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

MAJOR BORDEN OF MILTON SUCCUMBS

Widely Known Physician Throughout
Southern Wisconsin—Veteran
of Civil War.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milton, Oct. 30.—Major W. H. Borden, M. D., died Monday afternoon after an illness that had confined him to the house but a few days, although he had been in feeble health for some months, but able to be about town. Deceased came to Milton in 1854 and began the practice of his profession, which he continued without cessation, except while serving as surgeon of the First Wisconsin Heavy Artillery during the War of the Rebellion, until failing health compelled him to relinquish it a year ago. Doctor Borden was very successful in his profession, had a large clientele and but few men had a larger acquaintance in this and adjoining counties than he. For several years he was a member of the Rock county board of pension physicians and was for some time an active member of the village school board. He took great interest in local, state and national affairs and was active in local matters for the betterment of town and country. He leaves one son, Assistant State Superintendent J. B. Borden of Madison, and two daughters, Miss Mary A. Borden of this village and Mrs. Geo. Van Campen of Olean, N. Y. He was born in New York state and was in his eighty-third year at the time of death. The funeral takes place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Continuing he states that the railroads had to pay mileage on each direction of hundreds of cars never used because of lack of ice. It was then that the railroad sought to make an exclusion contract with some company which would guarantee adequate cars and sufficient ice, but the growers did not favor the plan and consequently the following year "there was another ice famine with its attendant confusion and dissatisfaction." In 1898 however, conditions became intolerable for most of the refrigerator cars hitherto available were employed in carrying supplies to the U. S. soldiers in the Southern camps. The road could not afford to build its own cars and turned again to the refrigerator lines with an exclusion contract without which none would consider the subject, "because it meant (1) the purchase and storing of an enormous quantity of ice in the peach district and at the various icing stations enroute to the markets; (2) the building of storage houses for the purpose; (3) the erection of re-icing platforms and (4) the organization of an expensive of force to look after the loading, icing and re-icing." Investigation showed only four lines with a sufficient number of cars and of these but one which was willing to undertake the contract had enough cars available. The Armour line or the Fruit Growers' Express were interviewed and a large majority endorsed the contract. Mr. Winburn tells how the peach crop has been handled from 1898 to date under renewed contracts and submits many exhibits testifying to the general, if not almost universal satisfaction of the growers with the service.

Even at the risk of being tedious, I cannot forbear to observe that Mr. Winburn's official statement, of which he kindly furnished your correspondent a copy, refutes the oft-repeated assertions that the car lines secure such "exclusive" contracts by taking the railroads by the throat and compelling them to accept them, and does this not by conclusions or opinions but by the recital of facts. It also shows that instead of fastening on it, the refrigerator car grew along with the industry and the two are mutually dependent on each other for success and profits. Finally, it casts some light on the bold statement made by the attorneys before the Commission that the self-interests of the car lines and railroads would serve to keep the rates down to the lowest point compatible with the best service, for both the railroad and car lines are after the most business possible just as are the growers.

The present dearth of interesting events in government circles is largely attributable to the absence of President Roosevelt. When he is here the pot is always boiling and there is something doing all the time, but when "Robin's not there" the world is truly dull. Especially is this the case since the President sealed the lips of his Cabinet who are now permitted to discuss their policies or his only in stilted and formal phrases, of which typewritten copies are handed to the press associations. Alas! however cheerfully we may inform the world that we will "get the news as before" to ourselves we confess the situation is decidedly vexatious and deplorable. Not so much that we will be unable to garner the pearls of wisdom that drop from executive lips but because we are no longer able to let the world know on what terms of intimacy we dwell with the truly great. Formerly we could say "Well, chatting with Secretary Blank the other day, or 'at dinner last night one of the Cabinet said to me' or 'one of the most influential members of the Cabinet informs your correspondent,' etc." In the "good old, rare old, golden days" a correspondent could "pipe out" almost anything of this kind and it went, but now, with the Secretaries cautioned to beware of confidence at their own homes, any such story would be regarded either as a gross breach of etiquette if true, or as a self-branded "take." Nevertheless, there are compensations, for no longer with the correspondent receive such messages from his managing editor late at night like this: "See the Attorney General and get forecast of government action in Beef Trust cases" or "Rush through word interview with Root on Russian situation." The impression prevails here that whenever a managing editor thinks his Washington correspondent is loafing, he immediately wires him something like the above. Most of them previously were packed and after a decent interval the reply was sent that "Secretary Blank declines to talk" now it is merely "impossible," see Roosevelt's censorship order.

Speaking of orders from editors, probably the most unique was on which read (I quote from memory) "There is something in the air, rush a thousand words." Nice tip, that, for its correspondent. Another time a Western paper telegraphed its correspondent: "Send good story on possible war between England and Germany." He tucked the dispatch in his pocket and hustled around interviewing State Department officials and others and replied: "No possibility of war between England and Germany." Almost immediately came the pre-emptory answer: "Send story at once as ordered. We know what we want!"

While the railroads and the rate-revisionists are at it hot and heavy, with Taft and Foraker appealing to Ohioans, but from different standpoints, the President touring the South and Senator Chandler, and other contributing their quota, to say large portion of the crop seemed imminent and the apprehension of the growers, as well as the anxiety of the Central railroad may be imagined. With one company having a supply of ice today, another tomorrow, and in the meantime the others having none, the contracts between the car lines and growers were soon of no force. It was a question of who had the ice as to who got the shipments. The railroads could not tell one day what line of cars would be used the next, greatly increasing the work and expense of switching crews and practically destroying all system and dispatch in handling. Not a very cheerful picture of conditions then prevailing.

add that the story met with hasty and indignant denials from interested legislators. Probably the story was started by some new member who has not been supplied as yet. If so, the tip will doubtless be taken at once.

Speaking of Foraker, it is to be hoped that distinguished Ohioan will recuperate sufficiently before the fall open next session to attend the Senate with his customary vigor and arduous application. Mr. Foraker has long been a diligent student of railroad conditions and is one of the best informed men in the Senate on the subject of the regulation of railroad rates by the government. He has the fearlessness of his convictions and will speak freely so that he may be depended on to live up to matters when he meets in debate those who do not agree with him. While not thought to be serious, his illness is now to be regarded lightly as he is not in his sixtieth year, but in his strenuous life as a most active member of the Senate and a lawyer of great prestige and practice, has not fitted him to resist the invasions of disease. Not only is he chairman of the committee on the Pacific Islands and Porto Rico, but he is one of the most important members of the committees on Foreign Relations, Interstate Commerce, Military Affairs, Privileges and Elections and District of Columbia, where the duties are of an exacting nature. Last spring he attended the post-session hearings on the rate question but his health was not of the best and is not now.

For the first time a President of the United States has been wholly beyond the borders of his country. From Washington to Roosevelt the custom has been religiously observed that the President should not pass the confines of the United States, and there is no record that it was ever broken although it is suspected that sometimes on his fishing trips Cleveland passed the Hamlet limit. McKinley, while on the Mexican border at El Paso started across the bridge over the Rio Grande but stopped half way as he was not to pass on Mexican soil. Roosevelt went to sea on several days we were without a president. Technically he was of American territory for where our flag floats legitimately over land or sea there is American ground. Consequently it would be difficult to say he was incapacitated merely because he had gone to sea for a few days which he can very properly do on an American war vessel as commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy.

You will never tire of Mrs. Austin's Panicles. A fresh supply now on hand at your grocers.

REV. O. U. WHITFORD FOUND DEAD IN BED

Father of Milton Divine Succumbed
Suddenly While in Andover, N. H.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milton, Oct. 31.—A telegram was received Saturday morning announcing the sad news of the sudden and entirely unexpected death of Rev. O. U. Whitford of Andover, N. H., that morning, where he had gone to attend a meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist churches of that section of the state, in his capacity as secretary of the Missionary Board of that denomination. He was found dead in bed with no evidence of any struggle and evidently his death resulted from heart disease. His wife, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Whitford in this village, for three months past, left for their home at Westerly, R. I. Saturday afternoon, Prof. A. E. Whitford accompanying her.

—FORTY YEARS AGO—

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, October 31, 1865.—The Thirty-fifth Regiment.—We learn from Lieutenant G. E. Newman of the thirty-fifth regiment, who recently arrived home, that the regiment is now located at Brownsville, Texas, and is likely to remain there until mastered out. The men are in tolerably good health at present, much better than they have been, but are very anxious to get home.

City Items.—A suit was decided in Justice Hudson's court yesterday, interesting to those who think they are entitled to premiums at fairs and who do not get them. It appears that Mr. Sexton, of this city, entered a gang plow for competition, which by the Officers of the Society was placed in a given class. The trial of implements in this class was had, and the committee to who was assigned the work of indicating prizes, marked the plow of Mr. Sexton for first prize, which by the way was a silver medal and twenty-five dollars. When Mr. Sexton appeared before the officers and demanded his premium, they refused to accord it to him, on the ground that no such implement was named in the published list. Upon this Mr. S. brought suit to recover, and a judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff for $25.00 by the justice.

Pass Him Around.—A fellow named L. Rivenburgh is traveling about the Western country, representing himself as the agent of Hall, Southwick & Co., shoe dealers of New York, but who really is obtaining money under false pretenses. His mode is to take orders for goods and then represent that he is short of money, and borrow a plausible amount, with which he travels forward. In this way he "did" one of our dealers out of a small sum, as he learns from a letter from Messrs. H. S. & Co., who state that Rivenburgh has not been in their employ since June last. They say that he has been playing this game pretty extensively this past summer.

Trap to Catch Burglars.—A London paper publishes a description of a curious invention designed to catch safe burglars. The deprecator no sooner commences in perfect ignorance of the secret arrangements to force open the door, drill the lock or move the safe, than by so doing he sends a telegraphic message to the nearest police station, exhibiting the number of the safe he is attacking, and this number, registered in the police books, has opposite it the address of the house in which the robbery is being effected. The apparatus is the invention of Mr. Barb and is a very simple affair. An instrument termed "communicator" is fitted inside the safe; it consists of a small bell, which is forced upon a coil spring when the door is closed, and which in opening or moving the door is instantly set in motion. In connection with this bell wires are led through the back of the safe and concealed in the wall, or inclosed in gas or water pipes, and communicating with the street telegraph wires, are connected with the "alarm" and indicator at the police office. The effect of tampering with the door or other part of the safe is to sound the alarm bell at the station and to exhibit on the face of the instrument the number of the safe. The simple operation of turning a small key is all that is required to render the wires available, after which the owner may leave the premises perfectly confident, that the electricity will keep a tireless watch over the property left in his custody. Mr. Barb has patented his invention.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

"The Heir to the Hoorah" comes to the Myers Grand, Tuesday, October 31. It is announced as an American comedy by Paul Armstrong, produced under the auspices and personal direction of the late Kirk LaSalle.

You may see "The Heir" on any billboard in town. He is sitting on the floor by his mother's feet and playing with his blocks, the letters of which happen to make the name of the play. It was he that brought peace into the much divided household that owned the rich mine called the "Hoorah,"—divided chiefly by the mistakes and the interferences of a mother-in-law. Well-meaning, but blundering friends widened the gap,—then the little Heir bridged it. The scene is a mining town in the West; most of the characters are Western, and a charming widow personifies a Central park bloom and fade, and all dramatic offerings of even date of production succumb more or less ungraciously to Gotham's sense of satiety and the hot weather. Of the five emphatic successes of the metropolitan season as variously tabulated by the wise men of the newspapers and magazines, every table includes "The Heir to the Hoorah." Some of the rest of them include variously "The Freedom of Suzanna," "Mrs. Loringwell's Boots," "Adrea," "The Music Master," "The Woman in the Case," "The Education of Mr. Pipp" and "You Never Can Tell." But all the tables of success, whatever else they included, mentioned "The Heir to the Hoorah" as a play that all discriminating theatregoers should go to see and that was bound to achieve success because "it was typically American, and made people laugh

GUY BATES POST, STAR IN "THE HEIR TO THE HOORAH," WHICH APPEARS AT THE MYERS GRAND TONIGHT.

Western woman who has the open mind and the large spirit of her people in spite of her training in an Eastern college. Some of the characters are Eastern and they speak up for their East in humorous contrast to their Western brethren. There is a maiden aunt, who, having been the mistress of the dreams of a young miner until he meets her, becomes the idol of his waking hours when she confronts him as a tall, beautiful girl just out of Wellesley. There is a self-opinionated British butler of huge bulk, and a truculent, wiry little Jap valet who puts him in his place by magic of Jiu Jitsu. There are miners, who desire to present the new-born heir to the Hoorah with a mine or a ranch, in place of the conventional cup or spoon, and a delightfully unsophisticated bachelor uncle who promptly purchases six thoroughbred crows when he gathers from the jolly old doctor that the heir is liable to be raised as a "bottle baby." There is a most delightful cowpuncher who, when he does his first evening clothes under protest, declines to remove the spurs which were worn during his waking hours for twenty years.

These are the people that tell the story of "The Heir to the Hoorah" and they told it to such effect in New York that the American comedy by Paul Armstrong, Esq., which landed on Broadway in the sad and distressful days of Lent, remained at the Hudson Theatre to watch the roses frequently and heartily for legitimate cause. Outside judgment is not at all accounts "The Heir to the Hoorah" contains so many elements that appeal to the sympathies and tastes of so large a portion of our American public that it is likely that the country at large, will in this instance, endorse the expression of New York's approval. Guy Bates Post will be seen as the leading name character in Mr. Armstrong's play. The cast in detail includes Jane Payton, Ben S. Higgins, Ernest Lamson, Nora O'Brien, Louise Rutter, T. Tomamoto, Elliott Dexter, Coila Campbell, Cassius Quinby, Wilfred Lucas and Florence Coventry.

"The Isle of Bong Bong," the latest and greatest of the B. C. Whitney productions, which comes to the Myers Grand Saturday next, matinee and night, is said to be an endless chain of mirthful melody from the overture to the grand finale. This magnificent operatic extravaganza is a gorgeous spectacle, with an elaborate equipment of superb scenic and costume effects. An all star cast of unusual merit has been provided. John W. Ransome, Alice Yorkie, Anna Boyd, Edith Dewey, John W. Hendricks, Walter Ware, Charles Parcor, Chas. R. Haigh, Clement Johnstone, Leonard B. Hoyt are among the many stage celebrities with this celebrated organization.

JANESVILLE MARKET REPORT
Quotations on Grain and Produce for the Gazette.

REPORTED BY F. H. GREY & SON, DEALERS IN HAY, GRAIN, FLOUR AND FEED.
Oct. 27, 1905.
Flour—1st Patent, 120 to 125 3/4 Pat. out at 120 and 125 per sack.
Wheat—Chicago Cash, No. 1 and 2 North-west, $2.45 1/2.
New Ear Corn—$2.55 1/2 per ton.
Rye—New 67c per bu.
Hazel—New, 30¢ 1/2.
Oats—New, 14¢ 1/2.
Clover Seed—Barns at $8.00 to $8.50.
Timothy Seed—Barns at $1.50 to $1.75 per ton.
Hay—Per ton baled, $10.00.
Standard Middlings, $17.00 sacked.
Ore Meal—$30.00 per ton.
Corn Meal—$23.00 per ton.
Hay—Per ton baled, $9 to $10.00.
Straw—Per ton baled, $5.00.
Butter—Dairy, 20¢ 1/2.
Creamery 22¢ 1/2.
Potatoes 23¢ 1/2.
Eggs—20¢.
Onions 15¢ 1/2.
Poultry, live chickens, old fowls 8¢.
Ducks, dressed, 12¢ 1/2.
December wheat closed in Chicago yesterday at $2 1/2, an advance of 1/4c over the day previous, caused by the Russian railway strike, which, of course, leaves importing countries mainly dependent on America for supplies.

Corn and oats made slight advances in sympathy with wheat. Barley continues strong. Chicago prices advancing 1c on feeding sorts. There is practically no maling stock being offered in our local markets. Potatoes are scarce and local supply not sufficient for present demand. Dealers are laying in their winter stock from abroad.

Weak Stomach.

A weak stomach is most frequently caused by the overworked and exhausted nervous system.

The power that runs the stomach is the nerve force sent to it from the brain through the nerves. When the nerves are weak or exhausted the supply of energy is insufficient and the action of the stomach is impaired, and results in imperfect digestion—dyspepsia.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve increases nerve force. It strengthens and builds up nerve tissue, gives vigor to the nerves and muscles of the stomach; this produces a healthy activity. Nerve allays the inflammation, heals the membranes, and makes the stomach strong and healthy. There is nothing that so quickly gives energy to the whole system as Restorative Nerve.

"I can't say enough for Dr. Miles' Nerve. I don't know what it will do for others, but it certainly cured me of stomach trouble, and now I am as well as I ever was. Two physicians failed to relieve me, but in three or four days after taking Nerve I was much relieved. Four bottles made me a strong man at the cost of $4.00."

JAMES E. HART, Detroit, Mich.
Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit you. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Fair and warmer.
If you think that the value of advertising is exaggerated, why should you not be rather glad to see your business competitor use twice as much space in this newspaper as you use? But would you be glad to see it?

All Count Witte has to do at present is to find an antidote for the strike microbe.
Doubtless Little Rock now feels important enough to change its name to Big Rock.

Russia still has enough trouble on hand to make the place seem home-like to the czar.
Most of Mr. McCall's policyholders would be delighted if they could be just about as "poor" as he is.

If Boss Murphy had any curiosity to learn how Jerome acts when prodded with sensational charges he must be satisfied by this time.

It was in Kansas, you notice, that the train bearing H. H. Rogers of the Standard Oil company got the jolt that threw him from his berth.

Russia's governing officials should congratulate themselves that at least they got the war troubles out of the way.

No doubt there is method in England's present policy of flirting ostentatiously with every power except Germany.

On second thoughts Mr. Harriman may have concluded that it was much more important to get home alive than to get there at high speed.

November 21 is the date fixed upon as the time when Senator Elkins' committee will meet and proceed to draft a bill not to regulate railway freight charges.

Ohio's voters ought not to have much difficulty in guessing whether Taft or Foraker better represents the administration on the railway-rate question.

A sensational report from Oklahoma avers that a postmaster there resigned voluntarily. The report will be received with caution, of course, till confirmed by investigation.

Count Witte will do well to read over the list of the grand dukes again before concluding that his success is assured. The grand dukes are numerous and their pull is prodigious.

While trying to do something to uplift the "poor rich" the promoters of the movement need not think they can do anything for Uncle Russell Sage. Uncle Russell does not want to be uplifted.

China's emperor is not likely to form an exaggerated estimate of his greatness so long as the empress dowager adheres to her present favorite amusement of locking him up every little while.

Congressmen who "recommend" men for federal grand jury service should be put on record. Their interesting practices in the particular will be used for reference when election time comes.

Of course, when a football coach announces that his team is crippled and slow and weak in trick plays, he never dreams that his words may reach the ears of the coach of the team he is about to play against.

WHO ARE THE WORKERS?
A socialist orator stood in front of the sub-treasury a day or two ago and told his little cluster of hearers that all wealth was the product of labor, but that the laborer got only a small percentage of the product of his labor; the greater proportion went to capitalists.

But who are the laborers who produce this wealth, who take it out of the earth, who cultivate it from the soil, who transport it for the market, who transport it and sell it to the customer? This is a rather important question to be considered before making such a declaration as that the laborer does not get his due proportion of the product of his labor. There are millions of people who never handled a hoe or run a machine. But are they any less laborers who are producing wealth and adding to the sum of the achievements of civilization? Is the banker who finances the great operations of commerce and transportation any less a laborer than the man who works with the hoe? Capitalists who are using their capital and directly its use, in proper channels for the development of business enterprises, are not parasites. Artists, actors, writers and even newspapermen are not parasites living off the labor of others. They, too, have their part in the great mechanism of the production and distribution of wealth.

There is an internal conflict between one class of labor and another class as to the division of the products of labor. One class is continually complaining because another gets a larger share than it does. There can be no doubt that the division is unequal. But so is the endowment given by nature to different men unequal. No socialist philosopher can explain away the inequality that exists in the mental power of different individuals, and no socialist program can remedy this inequality. It exists inherently in the human race. Thus one worker of superior mental powers and industry will get a larger reward for his labor than another. The only equality that is possible in this world is equality before the law, so that every man, rich or poor, strong or weak, richly endowed, or deficient in brains, shall have an equal standing before the law, to make the most of the powers which Nature has given him. That is the problems which our republican government is endeavoring to solve; namely, the problem of equality before the law. It must be admitted that we have not altogether solved it yet, but we are steadily approaching to a solution. The more of such equality there is, the less room there will be for socialism.

LIKES LITTLE TIN
HORSE SENTIMENT

Best of All the Lines in the Play—Guy Bates Post Talks of "The Heir to the Hoohah."

Guy Bates Post and his company, who are to present "The Heir to the Hoohah" at the Myers theatre this evening, arrived in the city this noon. Mr. Post is a very pleasing person, with a mobile face, sparkling eyes and a voice which captivates and holds the listener. He talks earnestly and entertainingly of the play, declaring that the types presented are true to the wild, care-free life of the west which he has personally known. Of the lines he admires most of all the soliloquy on the little old tin horse with a dash of paint which gave more pleasure to the child than he could hope to buy for a million, at thirty. In those lines the late Kirke LaSelle, who assisted Paul Armstrong in this, his last dramatization, is speaking from his own joyful, tender, boyish heart. Taken out of their setting they do not impress one much but it is easy to believe Mr. Post when he says that strong men have wept on hearing them. To the rapid play and counterplay of tears and comedy is to be attributed the peculiar charm of the play. The babe, but a few hours old, is brought in during a scream of laughter, which stops abruptly, is succeeded by a solemn hush—a few words—then laughter again. The play had a run of nearly four months at the Hudson theatre, New York, and has met with such success in Chicago that it is to be taken back there for another engagement after a brief tour of some of the neighboring cities.

MORTUARY MENTION

Thomas Butler
Word has been received from Augusta, Georgia, announcing the death of Thomas Butler in that city yesterday morning. Thomas Butler had lived in Janesville for the past four years and was one of the best-known colored residents of the city. For almost a year past he has suffered from heart trouble and his demise, which occurred in a hospital in Augusta, was due to a combination of dropsy and heart trouble. Butler was employed as porter in Hough's barber-shop during his stay here and made many friends by his genial ways. He was an expert musician and delighted his customers with his rare wit and pleasing manners. Some two weeks ago he went south to his old home in Augusta, thinking that a winter there would benefit him. He wrote Mr. Hough a few days ago that he was in the hospital there and hoped to be back early in the spring of a well man. He was a member of the Beloit lodge of Colored Odd Fellows and that lodge met last evening and arranged to send money for the burial expenses and a suitable floral tribute. Butler will be missed by both his colored and white friends. He was twenty-nine years of age on July 4th last.

William Frederick Arndt
The remains of the late William Frederick Arndt were tenderly interred in The Shopiere cemetery yesterday. Funeral services were held from the family home in the town of La Prairie at half-past one o'clock. Rev. Lugg of Shopiere officiating.

Mrs. John Techtman
The last sad rites over the remains of the late Mrs. John Techtman were performed this afternoon, services being held from the home at 424 South Jackson street at half-past two o'clock. Rev. Kvale of Orfordville was the officiating clergyman and interment was in Oak Hill cemetery.

Stood Test of 16 Years Hard Service

Last week the assistant auditor of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Coal & Transportation Co., with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo., was in this city. He visited with Dr. Richards. They were old friends sixteen years ago in St. Louis, when he was a student in Stratton's Business College and Dr. Richards was in Dental College.

Amidst other recollections brought up, he said: "You see these three crowns you put on for me sixteen years ago? There they are: AS GOOD AS EVER. Never have loosened or broken."

Now, if Dr. Richards, when just a student could put in work which has stood the hard test of time for sixteen years WITHOUT FAILING, ought not his experience in the years since given him skill to do even better work for you, if you will employ him for your dentistry?

FRANCHISE OF SOUTHERN WIS CO. TO QUIETLY LAPSE.

AT MEETING OF THE COUNCIL

Last Evening, McKee Boulevard Was Ordered Cleared of Poles and Other Business Was Transacted.

No one appeared before the city council in behalf of the Southern Wisconsin Interurban Ry. Co. at the meeting last evening and the franchise for building an electric road through Janesville to Madison, granted that corporation long ago and the time for acceptance of which has been repeatedly extended will presumably lapse tomorrow, leaving the way clear for the new owners of the R. B. & J. Interurban company. It is believed that the latter interests will make application in the very near future for a franchise along somewhat broader lines than the one which is about to expire.

Want Taxes Rescinded

In a communication the Church of the United Brethren in Christ asked that the assessment of taxes against lot 7, Pease subdivision of lot 6, of the Pease addition to Janesville be rescinded on the grounds that an option on this lot at the corner of Milton and Prospect avenues had been secured before such assessment was made and $500 paid to bind the bargain. The communication was signed by Rev. A. D. Whitney, I. L. Reese, and A. M. Glenn. While it is not customary to tax property in use for church purposes, this particular lot is not yet devoted to church purposes and it is hardly likely that the council will find it within its power to grant the request. It was stated last evening that the Central Methodist congregation was required to pay taxes on its lot where the new church is now building because it was not actually devoted to the uses of the church at the time of the assessment. The judiciary committee to which the matter was referred will report at the next meeting.

$107 for a Bandstand

The usual bills and the salary list were presented and passed upon. Street and sidewalk grades and the curb line for Carrington street were filed and accepted. The resignation of G. H. Errede as first ward constable was accepted but his successor was not chosen. Authority was given the city clerk to purchase two carloads of brick. At the instance of Ald. Brockhaus the street commissioner was instructed to cover the display fountains for the winter. The latter, as chairman of the committee on parks, stated that the season was too far advanced to build the new drinking fountains and his motion to cancel the acceptance of Contractor Cannon's bid for their construction, prevailed. He also reported that two bids for repairing the Riverview Park bandstand had been received and moved that the lower one of $107 be accepted and the work done this fall. Some objection was made to this plan. Mayor Hutchinson said that he thought it was $107 thrown away, as the bandstand was not needed there, but that if the people of Janesville or the aldermen wanted it he would not oppose it. Ald. Brockhaus admitted that the stand hadn't been used for a long while, but he averred that it was a good little building; that the top was in good condition; that it would cost probably $300 to replace it; that the repair work would be in cement and would last forever; and that if it was not repaired it would have to be torn down. The motion authorizing the expenditure for repairs carried, Aldermen Herdman, Hager, and Dullin voting in the negative.

Kastner Walk Again

Weeks ago the assistant street commissioner condemned the walk in front of George Kastner's property on Center avenue and ordered a new one built. The owner appealed from this decision to the city council and the latter instructed the highway committee to investigate. In the meantime it is alleged that the owner proceeded to repair the same and when viewed by the committee it was found to be in passable condition and recommendation was made that the matter be allowed to rest until spring. The council took no action on this report. Ald. Dullin, however, has not been disposed to allow the matter to be sidetracked in this manner. Last night he demanded a decision and introduced an order calling on the assistant street commissioner to proceed to build a new walk in front of the premises. He said that it was of no use to have an assistant street commissioner if aldermen were going to make a practice of scratching condemned walks off his list. Ald. Jackman remarked that it was getting late to build cement walks, but the order carried without opposition.

To Clear McKee Boulevard

By an order introduced by Ald. Brockhaus the R. B. & J. Interurban Ry. Co. is directed to move its poles on McKee boulevard from the roadway and the Janesville Electric Co. is instructed to so arrange its wires at the St. Paul crossing on that thoroughfare that the railroad gates may be closed. The same alderman's order calling for the cleaning of the gutters on Court, S. First, S. Second, and S. Main streets, was opposed by his colleague in the third ward, Ald. Jackman, on the grounds that the ward could not stand the expense. The matter was held over. The street commissioner was ordered to build brick crosswalks on Holmes street; on Cherry on the south side of Holmes; on Galena on the east side of High; on Center avenue on the north side of State; on Fifth avenue across the east side of Fourth avenue. The city clerk was instructed to enter into contract with some competent party for repairing a leak in the roof of the city hall. All the aldermen save E. T. Fitch were present at the session.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Jeffris went to Chicago today and expect to leave there for a several weeks' visit in Nashville and Chattanooga, returning home just before the holidays.

TO SAVE THE RIVER ALDERMEN CALL HALT ON ENCROACHMENTS

City Engineer is Instructed to Make a Survey and Establish Fixed Lines for the Banks.

Encroachments on the Rock river from the western side, near the Milwaukee street bridge and above that point, again demand the attention of citizens. Right at the bridge the channel is said to have been narrowed many yards by the filling-in operations that have been quietly carried on and if the city follows out the course inaugurated at the council meeting last evening, owners will have some dredging work to do in the near future in getting back to a fixed line beyond which they should never have been permitted to crowd.

Dumping Ashes in Stream

The matter came to the attention of the council through complaints that ashes were being dumped in the river some distance above the bridge. City Marshal Appleby was called upon to address the council on the matter and said that objection had been made to certain parties building the bank out further into the river by the dumping of ashes on the bank. The particular complaint was against the property of the Blodgett Milling Co. owners. He had seen Mr. Blodgett and the latter had said that he believed himself clearly within his rights but that if the council would establish a river line he would abide by it and put in piling and plankings. He had also stated that he was not nearly so far out as the property owners in the vicinity of Milwaukee street.

City Can Regulate

Mayor Hutchinson read the section of the city charter wherein Rock river is declared a public highway and the city is given the same supervision over it as over the highways, except that it may not obstruct navigation. It provides also for a survey at any time, the cost of the same to be paid by the owners of the property bounded by the said river. Alderman Jackman said that it seemed to him that as long as there was no river line established, the ordinance now in force which prevents people from throwing anything in the river from paper to crushed stone, governed. It was common knowledge that these encroachments had been going on for the past ten or more years. He moved that it be the sense of the council that the ordinance now on the books be rigidly enforced. The resolution carried and the mayor instructed the city marshal to perform his duty in the matter.

Advocated Fixed Line

Marshal Appleby said that it would be an utter impossibility to enforce the ordinance to the letter, so as to prevent anyone from throwing anything into the river but he believed that the evil against which he present complaints were made could be corrected by establishing a river line and having piling and plankings put in along this line. Besides safeguarding the river from future encroachment would also add much to the appearance of the now ragged shore on the west side. In the cases complained of the property owners had not dumped the ashes directly into the water but had piled them at the edge of the bank in such a way that they gradually rolled in.

Order For A Survey

Alderman Jackman introduced an order calling on the city engineer to make a survey of the river from the Fourth street bridge to S. Franklin street, establishing the line of the banks of said river. Ald. Bauman wanted the survey to extend further south as he said that ashes were being dumped in the same manner for a considerable distance south on South River street. It was thought that an additional survey might be made next summer and the order as introduced passed by a unanimous vote.

JANESVILLE BADGERS WON GAME FROM HEAVY ELEVEN

Defeated Wilbur's Stars Sunday—Two Local Teams to Play at Yost's Park Sunday.

Sunday the Janesville Badgers, who have succeeded the First Ward Badgers, met a picked team captained by John Wilbur and playing under the name of Wilbur's Stars and defeated them by a score of twenty to nothing. The victors were heavily outnumbered by their opponents, but dash and quickness won the day. Cox and McCaffrey were each credited with two touchdowns. Next Sunday at Yost's park two Janesville eleven will meet two Beloit aggregations. The heavier Bower City team has played no games thus far, but is practicing regularly. The preliminary to the principal contest will be furnished by the local Badgers and the Beloit second team.

MYSTIC NIGHT OF ALL SAINTS

This is the Eve for Young Girls to See Their Future Husband's Picture.

Tonight is the fateful All Saints' eve when all the maidens eat apples, burn chestnuts and try other tricks to see what their lot will be as concerns their matrimonial state. Each year this holiday, which dates from early traditions of the Scotch, finds new favor among youthful people, and until twelve o'clock tonight every known Hallowe'en game will be tried by the young women who want to see whether they will be old maids from necessity or choice.

Hallowe'en

It is the season, famed in legend and superstition, when eerie sights are seen, and when mystic folk hold sway—the season of witches, gnomes and fairies, of magic rings and potent charms, of love philters and incantations, of observances and ceremonies handed down from the days of yore when the little people really danced in the mystic rings, and druids and fauns peopled wood and grove. All Hallow's eve approaches.

Are Too Busy

We haven't time nowadays for the mysterious people of old. Devout churchmen no longer pray for deliverance from "witches and warlocks and the things that say 'boo' in the meadows." The work-a-day world is quite deprived of the enchantment that once enchanted it. Folk of the unseen world have fled, and only once a year return to hold high revel in remembrance of days that are no more.

More Practical

People are more practical now, but the ceremonies continue potent. Apple peels and gill cat, mirrors gazed in with fear and trepidation, candles burned in trembling fear, and other rites carefully observed. Libraries are ransacked for information that may throw light on old customs, and society, always glad of diversion, seizes upon the feast as a pretext for new forms of entertainment.

Mystic Ceremony

This is the night when witches, gnomes, and fairies fly through the air or walk the streets, when certain incantations and ceremonies are effectual as on no other night in the year, and when the harmless pranks and capers of the small boys of the city pass unnoticed by the bluecoated, brass-buttoned civil officers. Little preparation has been made in anticipation of Hallowe'en this season, but the lighted Jack-o'-lanterns in the shop windows and the tap of the beans against the window pane announce that the time has approached.

May Do Damage

The prudent householder whose place is provided with gates, horse blocks, and other movable articles will see to it that these are nailed down or taken inside for the night. The police regulations which forbid the moving or destroying of any such property will not be observed by many of the boys, and unless precautions are taken, more or less damage is bound to be done.

To Entertain Faculty

The Hallowe'en banquet and reception tendered the faculty of the high school by the young ladies of the Domestic Art department annually will occur this evening. The seniors will be the hostesses and the supper has been prepared and will be served by the juniors and sophomores. The affair is to take place on the fourth floor of the school building, the supper to be spread in the attic room. This and the sewing-room have been decorated with jack-o'-lanterns, corn shocks, vines, and autumn leaves and the lights are arranged to cast a weird glow upon the whole. After the refreshments, which in their nature fit the occasion, a brief program of toasts will be given. H. C. Buell has been given the subject of "Corn;" John Arbuthnot, "Pumpkins;" and Miss Grace Mount, "Witches." The supper will be at half-past four and the remainder of the evening until seven o'clock is to be spent in an enigmatical series of mysterious "stunts."

Barn Sociable

The Christian Endeavor society of the Baptist church will hold a Hallowe'en sociable in the barn of J. T. Wright on Division street, Miss Grace Wright being a member of the organization. The decorations that have been arranged and the supper that is planned equal the place of holding the function in their appropriateness. Stalks of maize, pumpkins and branches loaded with variegated foliage will lend an air of attractiveness, while the refreshments are to be served from coarse earthenware bowls, placed on plank tables. An attendance of some seventy young people is anticipated.

Laurels as Ghosts

Miss Sara McLean will this evening be the hostess of the young ladies of the Laurean literary society of the high school at the home of her parents on North Jackson street. The guests are expected to come in the robes of ghosts, each garbed in a robe of white, walking with firmness and dignity and speaking only in the awe-inspiring tones which spectres are reputed to utter. Refreshments—apples, grapes, doughnuts, cheese and cider—are to be spread and the evening will be spent in numerous seasonable methods of telling the matrimonial or non-matrimonial futures of those present. The home has been tastefully decorated for the affair. Miss Grace Mount will act as chaperone, Miss Lummis, the critic of the society, being ill.

Entertained Last Evening

At the home of her parents on Prairie avenue last evening Miss Nettie Holt entertained the King's Messengers of the Presbyterian church at a Hallowe'en party. A spread of the refreshments peculiar to the holiday was enjoyed. On the menu was a mystic cake, which was baked during the festivities of the evening, and which when cut told three fortunes. Among games played was "Fortunes told in walnuts." The verses which were written by the hostess, were very clever. Fourteen ladies were present.

John Hager Host

Twenty-four young men and young ladies were the guests of John Hager at his home on Jefferson street last night. Delicious refreshments were served and the evening spent in cards and Hallowe'en pastimes.

S. S. O. Club Met

The S. S. O. club met at the home of Miss Verna Bennisson, North High street, last evening and enjoyed a Hallowe'en session. Refreshments were served.

DOUBLE TRACK MAY CONNECT CHICAGO

With Janesville, if Present Plans of the Northwestern Mature—So Gen.

Sup't Cantillon Intimates

Among the possibilities which the future has in store is another track from Harvard to Janesville, which will afford a double track from Chicago to this city, with the latest block signals and service between this city and the metropolis cut down close to two hours. General Superintendent W. D. Cantillon visited here yesterday and made an inspection of the line between Harvard and the Bower City. He intimated that the company planned to make the improvements above described within a very short time.

DO YOU REMEMBER THAT FRENZIED SKY? SURELY YOU HAVEN'T FORGOTTEN

Do you remember that "frenzied sky," those blotches of color in the much-discussed painting of Davis, the impressionist, called "The Old Oak," in last spring's collection? There will be some more examples of this American art in the exhibition which opens at the public library tomorrow evening; also of McGrath and Bruce Crane. Of the modern Dutch school, besides the master of the age, Israels, there will be works by Peters, Edward Ertz, Cornelius Westerbeek, Blommers, and Lesrel, you have not forgotten. Blommers' "Children of the Sea?" These are only a few.

Judith of the Plains

—By—
MARIE MANNING,
Author of "Lord Allingham, Bankrupt"

Copyright, 1905, by Harper & Brothers

CHAPTER IX.

JUDITH, on her black mare Dolly, left the Dax ranch after the midday meal to go in quest of her brother. He had left his comfortable cabin on the Bear creek when he had turned rustler and moved into the "bad man's country." One of those remote mountain fastnesses that abound in Wyoming and furnish a natural protection to the fugitive from justice. Judith took the left fork of the road even as Peter Hamilton had chosen the right the day she had watched him gallop toward Kitty Colebrook with never a glance backward. Judith strove now to put him and the memory of that day from her mind by turning toward the open country without a glance in the direction he had taken. But her thoughts were weary of journeying over that trail that she would not look toward. In imagination she had traveled it with Peter a hundred times, saw each dip and turn of the yellow road, each feature of the landscape, as he rode exultant to Kitty, to be turned, tried, taken or left, as her mood should prompt. But Judith was more woman than saint, and in her heart there was a blending of joy and pain, for she knew—such skill has love in inference—from detail—that the mysterious faraway girl, who was so powerful that she could have whatever she wanted, even to Peter, loved her own ambitions better than she did Peter or Peter's happiness and that she would not marry him except as a makeshift. For Miss Colebrook wrote verses. Peter had a white and gold volume of them that Judith fancied he said his prayers to.

As for Peter himself, he had never been able to explain the magic Kitty had brewed for him. There was a heady quality in the very ring of her name. His first glimpse of her on class day in a white gown and a hat that to his manly indiscrimination looked as guileless as a sheet of poppies nodding above the pale yellow hair that had the sheen of corn silk had been a vision that stirred in him heroic promptings. He had no difficulty in securing an introduction. She was a connection of the Wetmorens, as was he, though through opposite sides of the house. In the few minutes' talk that followed he had the disconcerting sensation of being "talked down to." There was the indulgent tolerance of the woman of the world to the "nice boy" about this amazing young-woman, who might have been eighteen. Hamilton had repudiated the very suggestion of being a "nice boy." But he felt himself blushing, groping for words, saying stupid things, supplying every requisite of the "nice boy" as if he were acting the part.

Later, when he ran the gamut of some friends, they had chafed him on his hardness. By Jove, he had nerve to look at her! Didn't he know she was "the" Miss Colebrook? Now, Hamilton was absolutely ignorant of Miss Colebrook's right of way to the definite article, but it was characteristic of him to make no inquiries. On the whole, he found the situation meeting with a greater number of the artistic requirements than such situations usually presented. He was still dallying with this pleasant vagueness of sensation when he picked up a copy of a magazine, and the name Katherine Colebrook caught his eye and held it like the light of a comet. Her contribution was a sonnet entitled "The Miracle." As a naive emotional confession "The Miracle" interested him. As a sonnet he read it unmercifully.

Peter was to learn, however, that this sonnet was but a solitary flake in a poetic fall of more or less magnitude. He rather conspicuously avoided a reference to her poetry when they met again. To him it was the very least of her gifts. Her hair, that had the tender yellow of ripening corn, was worthy of a cycle of sonnets, but pray leave the making of them to some one else!

When Hamilton knew her better he did not like to think that he had thought her eighteen at their first meeting. It impugned his judgment as a man of the world. Young ladies of eighteen could not possibly be contributors of several years' standing to the various magazines. An unusual situation was abhorrent to him. That he should marry an older woman, one, moreover, who had gained her public in a field to which he had not gained admission, was doubly distasteful by reason of his deference to the conventional. If she had flirted with him, his midsummer madness would have evaporated into thin air, but she kept him at arm's length, ostensibly took him seriously, and the boy proposed.

Her rejection of him was a matter of such consummate skill that Hamilton did not realize the keenness of his disappointment till he was swinging westward over the prairies. She had confided to him that her work claimed her and that she must renounce those sweet responsibilities that made the happiness of other women.

This had all happened seven years ago. In the meantime he had adjusted his disappointment to the new life of the west. To say that he had fallen in love with the situation would be to misrepresent him, but the role of lonely gun puncher loyally wedded to the thought of his first love was not without charm to Peter. How long his constancy would have survived the test of proximity to a woman of Judith Rodney's compelling personality, other things being equal, it would be difficult to hazard a guess. The coming of Judith from the convent increased the perspective into which Kitty was retreating. With the vivid plausibility in the foreground, the pale haired writer of verse dwindled almost to remembrance. But the reverence for the usual, that made up the underlying motive for so much of Hamilton's conduct, presented barriers alongside of which his previous quandary regarding Miss Colebrook's seniority shrunk to insignificance. "He might marry a woman older than himself and swallow the grimace of it, but by no conceivable system of argument could he persuade himself to marry into a family like that of the Rodneys—the girl herself, for all her beauty and rare womanliness, a quarter Indian, her father, the synonym for obloquy, her brother, a cattle thief. When Peter went east he had expected to find Kitty worn by the pursuit of opium, haunted by the phantom of a career, resigned to the slings and arrows of remorseful spinsterhood. An obvious regret, or, at least, resignation, tempered by remembrance, was the unguent he anticipated at the hands of Kitty. But alas for sanctuaries built to refuge wounded pride! He found Kitty the pivot of an adoring coterie, the magazines flowing with the milk and honey of her verse and she looking younger, if possible, than when he had first known her."

The fun and hardship of the prairie had adjusted the blunder of their ages. Stark conditions had overdrawn his account perhaps a decade; she retained a surplus it would be rude to estimate. Her greeting of him was radiant, her welcome palpable in words that verged close to inspiration. A woman would have sensed warning instantly, deep feeling and the curled and perfumed phrase being suspicious croolies and sure to rouse those lightly slumbering watchdogs, the feminine wits. But Peter only turned the other cheek.

A telegram recalled him to the ranch and prevented a final leave taking with Miss Colebrook. He made his adieux by letter, and they were frankly regretful. Miss Colebrook's reply mingled sorrow in parting from an old friend with joy in having found him. Her letter, a masterpiece of phrase spinning, presented to Peter the one significant fact that she would not be averse to the renewal of his suit. In reading her letter he made no allowance for the fact that the lady had made a fine art of saying things and that her joy and regret at their meeting and parting might have been reminiscent of the printed passion that was so prominent a feature of magazine fiction. Her letters—the like of them he had never seen outside printed volumes of letters that had achieved the distinction of classics—culminated in the one that Judith had given him that morning, announcing that unexpectedly she had decided to join the Wetmore girls and would be glad to see him at the ranch.

That he had done at her bidding Judith knew. What she would least have suspected was that Miss Colebrook had received her visitor as if his break-neck ride across the desert had been in the nature of an afternoon call. If Judith, knowing what she did of this long drawn out romance, could have known likewise of her knight's chagrin, would she have pitied him?

Ignorant of the recent anti-climax and with a burden of many heavy thoughts, Judith was penetrating a world of unalleviated desolation. Beneath the scourge of the noonday sun the desert lay stripped of every illusion. Vegetation had almost ceased. Nothing but sun scorched, dust choked sagebrush could spring from such sterility. The fruit of desolation, it gave back to desolation a quality more melancholy than utter barrenness.

The trail that she must take to Jim's camp in the mountains was known to but few honest men. Fugitives from justice—the grave, impersonal justice of the law or the swift justice of the plains—found there an asylum. And, while they sometimes suffered in death by thirst or hunger a sentence more dreadful than the law of the land or the law of the rope would have given them, the desert, like the sea, seldom gave up her own. It was more than probable that no woman except Alida Rodney had ever taken that trail before and reasonably certain that no woman had ever taken it alone. Dolly, when she saw the beds of alkali grow more frequent and that the trails of the range cattle turned back, sniffed the lack of water in the air, slackened her pace and turned an interrogatory ear toward her mistress.

"It's all right, old girl." The gauntleted hand patted the satin neck. "We're in for"—Judith swung her head up and confronted the infinite desolation yawning to the sky, line—"God knows what."

Fairfield, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Will Dykeman and Albert Woodman received the sad news of the death of their nephew Leslie Wise of Milwaukee who was killed while playing football. He was a bright and intelligent scholar and beloved by all.A Quiet Wedding.
On Tuesday noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Wilbur in Delavan, a quiet wedding took place, the bride being Miss Carrie M. Allen, daughter of Mrs. S. G. Allen and the groom, Mr. Harry Dykeman of this place. Rev. Geo. W. White performed the ceremony in the presence of the family. They departed on the afternoon train for a short wedding tour to Maquoketa, Iowa, after which they will reside on a farm near here. They have the best wishes of their many friends.Steinkrous-Jackett.
Wednesday evening a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Otto Steinkrous when the daughter, Lilla was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Jackett of Clinton. They will reside in Clinton. Their many friends wish them a happy wedded life.Fairfield Paragraphs.

UNHAPPINESS DISPELLED.

Men and Women Unanimous About It.

Many women weep and wait and refuse to be comforted because their once magnificent tresses have become thin and faded. Many men incline to profanity because the flies bite through the thin thatch on their craniums. It will be good news to the miserable of both sexes, to learn that Newbro's Herpicide has been placed upon the market. This is the new scalp germicide and antiseptic that acts by destroying the germ or microbe that is the underlying cause of all hair destruction. Herpicide is a new preparation, made after a new formula on an entirely new principle. Anyone who has tried it will testify as to its worth. Try it yourself and be convinced. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

A Baby's Birth

is very much like the blossoming of a flower. Its beauty and perfection depends entirely upon the care bestowed upon its parent. Expectant mothers should have the tenderest care. They should be spared all worry and anxiety. They should eat plenty of good nourishing food and take gentle exercises. This will go a long way toward preserving their health and their beauty as well as that of the little one to come. But to be absolutely sure of a short and painless labor they should use regularly during the months of gestation. This is a simple liniment, which is to be applied externally. It gives strength and vigor to the muscles and prevents all of the discomforts of pregnancy, which women used to think were absolutely necessary. When Mother's Friend is used there is no danger whatever.

Mother's Friend

Over Half a Million SATISFIED CUSTOMERS

Do you think such an enormous business could be built up and continually increased, if our goods did not have exceptional value and merit? Do you think we could hold the trade of half a million people, if our reputation for doing exactly what we say wasn't firmly established? Do you think U. S. Senators, Foreign Ambassadors, Bankers, Business and Professional men in every section of this country would keep on using HAYNER WHISKEY if it wasn't all right?

Do you think doctors would recommend it and hospitals use it, if it wasn't absolutely pure and unadulterated? Just think these things over carefully and then send us a trial order. Your money back if you are not satisfied.

SLAYER PLANNED TO RAID BANK

Le Duc Meant Robbery When He Killed Chenoa's Mayor.
Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 31.—William Le Duc, who killed Mayor Nickel and Hugh B. Jones at Chenoa Saturday, planned a raid on the bank with hopes of escape. He visited his mother's home Saturday and bade her farewell, saying that he intended to leave the country. The loss of $3,000 in the settlement with his wife after she left him and negotiated through Nickel, his brother-in-law, is believed to have so preyed on his mind that he hoped to recoup his losses through a raid on the bank and escape. The marvelously quick gathering of people on the streets prevented his plan, and he was forced to retreat to the vault. He burned $1,500 in paper money in the vault, but left the silver untouched.
